

B1
can
C1

wherein the wireless communication device further transmits operation information corresponding with operation of the control part to an external apparatus to remotely control the external apparatus; and wherein the wireless communication device transmits at least one of the image data and the operation information when the camera is within a predetermined distance of the external apparatus.
